

Innovation Centre for Mobility Services and Communications

The aim is research and development in the field of identification and optimisation of solutions for the administration and management of large mobile infrastructures, in the field of new network protocols and services in network infrastructures of the 5th generation, in sensor IoE/IoT solutions, cloud infrastructures, and the detection of anomalous conditions in network and information infrastructures, using elements of big data analysis.